

It's time for something different. An experienced independent voice focused on results. Someone who appreciates the rising cost of living and has practical ideas to address it. Someone with a record of helping people who need a fair chance. And someone who is not bought by special interests. Chris Demers is passionate about improving our democracy and has spent his career solving complex problems in real environments.

Our region should not keep sending the same big-money politicians back to Washington amid an unaffordability crisis and deteriorating social conditions. Chris Demers will not take corporate PAC money. His campaign is powered by individual supporters, not special interests. He will serve a limited number of terms and publish public progress reports so voters can track what he is accomplishing. That is real accountability. Voters deserve a representative who is transparent and whose performance can be measured.

Chris is running to lower the cost of living, make home ownership possible again for working families, improve healthcare affordability, and protect the rights and dignity of vulnerable people.

He is not running to join a partisan fight. He is running to represent our region and deliver results.

If you believe it is time for practical leadership, real accountability, and an independent voice, Chris Demers respectfully asks for your vote.
