As we face the important decisions ahead, Scotts Valley must preserve our public safety, schools, and parks, while creating housing opportunities as the city grows. I am running for City Council to safeguard and enhance the qualities that make our city exceptional.

I have dedicated my life to public service. During my 30-year career at Santa Cruz PD, I partnered with council members to craft legislation that increased public safety and improved the quality of life. I collaborated with community leaders and businesses to design responsible growth plans that allowed the city to expand without losing its identity. After retiring from SCPD as Deputy Chief, I volunteered for the Scotts Valley General Plan Advisory Committee. During the 4-year process, I worked to create a General Plan that preserved the character of our town as we addressed state-mandated and eventual growth.

I am experienced in navigating the challenges of small-city government, including tight budgets, limited resources, and complex state mandates. As a parent and community volunteer, I support strong school and youth programs as an investment in the lives of our future leaders.

I look forward to representing our beautiful city and strengthening our community together.
